6400 enroll as semester begins

President's address, social funtions highlight orientation

Orientation activities for the new students enrolled at EMC are concluding today and Friday.

Winding up the array of functions will be an all-college dance Friday night from 9:00 to 12:00 in McKenny Hall's ballroom. Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity and Alpha Sigma Tau sorority are co-sponsoring the event.

On Saturday evening, Pi Kappa Sigma sorority will sponsor an all-college dressy dance with a Valentine motif of "Cupid's Capers."

Regular classes, beginning today, will be broken by an all-campus jazz session at McKenny Hall from 7:30 to 10:30 this evening.

The new EMC students include 139 freshmen and 137 transfer students who met at their first assembly at 3:00 Sunday in Pease Auditorium to hear President Eugene B. Elliott discuss "Your Investment in College."

Ralph F. Gilden, Dean of Student Activities, presided, assisted by Charles Crickmore, a senior student from Flint who is president of the Men's Union and captain of the EMC basketball team.

Rev. Harley C. Sipe of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, gave the Invocation and benediction. Organ music was played by Eric Goldschmidt, assistant professor of music. At the conclusion of the program, the campus chimes were played by Haydn Morgan, Head of the Department of Music at the college.

Placement tests in various fields were given on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Tuesday began with a general orientation testing in Strong Auditorium at 8 o'clock, followed by a general assembly for all students at 10 o'clock in Pease Auditorium. At 11 o'clock in the same auditorium students had a chance to discuss participation in chorus, band, orchestra, and private music instruction.

Separate meetings for men and women students were scheduled for 1:30 Tuesday afternoon, the women meeting in Welch Auditorium and the men in Strong Auditorium. Women were addressed by the Dean of Women and officers of the Men's Union.

An open forum on student activities and organizations was held Tuesday afternoon, while welcome parties, social hours and co-recreation programs occupied other hours.

Associate Dean of Men William Crane, Assistant Dean of Women Adelyn Hollis and Associate Dean of Women Helen Rudin headed the second semester orientation committee. Dean Hollis, chairman, was assisted by a committee of 25 students.

Announce change of spring vacation

The dates for spring vacation at EMC have been changed from those previously published to March 28 through April 6, college officials announced this week.

Vacation will officially begin at noon on Saturday, March 28, although the afternoon of Good Friday, March 27, will be a college holiday, with no classes after noon.

The action to change the dates was taken by the Policy Council, with the approval of President Eugene B. Elliott, in order to have the spring vacation coincide with that of the University of Michigan, the Ypsilanti school district and other neighboring school districts.

Spring vacation for the next academic year, 1959-60, will run from noon on Saturday, April 16, through Sunday, April 24. Classes will resume on Monday, April 25. These dates are also different from those appearing in the present college catalog.

Late leaves for dormitory women granted beginning this semester

Late leaves, extensions of one hour beyond the regular dormitory closing hour, have been granted women students at EMC beginning this semester.

To be eligible, a students must be a second semester freshman a junior, or a senior, and have a cumulative average of 2.00. The leaves may be taken on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday evenings.

A second semester freshman is allowed one leave per semester; a sophomore, two; a junior, three; and a senior, four. A resident must indicate her intention to use a late leave before 8:00 of that evening.

$24,000 in government funds offered EMC students for loans

EMC will receive $24,152 for the establishment of a national defense student loan fund, revealed L. G. Derthick, U. S. Commissioner of Education in Washington.

College officials said the fund will assist students with acute financial problems to continue their studies at EMC. This fund is also available to new students entering the college for the second semester.

It was pointed out, however, that the sum is considerably less than a recently conducted survey of students needs indicated.

Students who borrow from the loan fund will repay the money with interest. Individuals who take teaching positions in either the elementary or secondary schools, however, will have their debt reduced by ten per cent for each year of teaching service up to a maximum of five years.

Locally the loan program will be administered by the offices of the dean of men, Dean of Women, and the Office of Student Activities. Applications may be secured at the Office of Student Activities.

Nine faculty members appointed by board

Two full time appointments, a guest lectureship and six part time appointments to the staff at Eastern Michigan College were announced recently by the State Board of Education.

R. W. Thorton was appointed to the position of assistant professor of industrial education at the college for the second semester. He attended Bowling Green State University, has a B.S. degree from Ohio State University and an M.A. degree from Colorado State University.

Mrs. Eunice Knisely was appointed an instructor in the special grade in the Lincoln School for the second semester. A graduate of the Milwaukee State Teacher's College with a B.E. degree, Mrs. Knisley has had several years of experience in teaching the deaf.

Prof. R. M. Thrall of the Department of Mathematics at the University of Michigan was appointed guest lecturer in the Eastern Michigan College Summer Institute in Mathematics be-

New students near 300 mark

A total of 276 new students had passed through the registration lines at Bowen Field House by Wednesday to swell EMC's expected spring enrollment to close to the 6400 mark.

Late registrations are expected to bring the number of new students to 300 and to increase by 200 the number enrolled last spring.

Included in the 4700 students expected to register for on-campus classes are 750 graduate students and 110 re-admitted students who had not been enrolled in the fall, according to William C. Lawrence, vice president for student affairs.

Of last semester's students, 3,640 are re-enrolling for their second semester of on-campus study this year.

Approximately 1,700 students are expected to enroll in the 22 off-campus centers of instruction. Late registration may vary the figure slightly, Lawrence said.

Set $25 deposits for new students

College officials have announced that the increasing number of prospective students and the need for early planning has made it necessary to charge enrolling students a "validation deposit" of $25 beginning in the fall of 1959 to help determine actual enrollments as early as possible.

The deposit will be applied toward tuition upon enrollment. It must be made before September 4 of each year.

"Like other colleges, EMC is experiencing the problems that arise when high school students file applications at anywhere from three to ten institutions," college officials said. "It is hoped that the validation deposit will aid somewhat in lessening this practice," they stated.

The new ruling applies to all new students including new evening students and those returning students who have not been enrolled the previous semester. It does not apply to students attending classes in off-campus centers.

A $10 late admission fee will be charged those students who fail to meet the deposit deadline. Request for a refund of a deposit must also be made before the deadline. No deposit will be refunded if the request is made after the deadline.

Summer Employment

A good number of summer job opportunities are available through the Placement Office, room 122 Pierce Hall. Most of the positions concern camp and resort work. Monday, February 23, a representative of the South Oakland Girl Scout Council will be on campus interviewing girls interested in camp work this summer. Girls interested must sign up for interviews in the Placement Office by next week.

Richard Nisbet, Director of Placement

June and August, 1959, Placement Candidates

To plan for job interviews and to consider placement procedures, the second placement meeting for all June and August, 1959 placement candidates will be held in the auditorium of Welch Hall. Business and industry candidates should attend one of two meetings, either Monday, February 23, or Tuesday, February 24, at 4:00 P.M. Teaching candidates should attend one of two meetings, either Wednesday, February 25, or Thursday, February 26, at 4:00 P.M. Those seeking a job are required to attend one of these meetings.

Letters to the Editor

Praises 'Priscilla'

To the Editor:

As usual, Priscilla's letter hit the crux of the matter in one blow.

If locking up the television room irritates her this much, I wonder what she would do in an older dorm where one's personal laundry is locked up tight every night. Yes, every night about 10:00 p.m., the warden (oops! she's an office girl, isn't she?) comes down bravely jingling a sporran of keys. She then proceeds to lock the laundry up.

I am told that this stops laundry room theft. This is ridiculous! If someone wants to steal something, she can jolly well do it during the day.

Some advocates feel that the locked door policy keeps our "little home safe." This also is quite absurd! The candy room and cloak room are left open. I have yet to come upon an assemblage of thieves in these rooms at 2:00 a.m. in the morning, or any other time for that matter.

In closing, I'd like to compliment Priscilla. In my years on this campus the newspaper has been neglected pitifully as a tool for freedom. Priscilla has opened this channel as a means of communication between the select minority that heads our women's organization on this campus, and the large unrepresented majority.

● International students

To the Editor:

Perhaps most of us recognize that today, in any community, organizations play important roles in the social activities of individuals. In order to succeed in our attempts toward satisfying our various needs we often need to act along some kind of arranged structure; we need to systematize our mutual interests and feelings and to exercise them jointly.

On our campus there are many groups of students who enjoy the existence of an association whose goals correspond to their collective needs. The international students are perhaps the only group that lacks such an association.

One might say that our students from abroad are not interested enough in participating in any group meeting or in any social programs, and that this is why their former club has dissolved.

This idea might have a little to do with the question, but it does not explain the whole story.

We students from abroad, like any other students, are interested in getting together for social, educational, and psychological benefits, and would enjoy group activity not only as a means of furthering our mutual interests but also as a way of opening the channels of communication and of understanding among ourselves.

Unfortunately, the principal cause which caused our International Association to disappear was nationalism. Some students felt that foreign students needs would be better served by nationalist associations.

But, if I may offer my opinion, the majority of foreign students feel differently; they feel that there is no place of a list of nationalist organizations for them.

They, therefore, are interested in re-establishing the International Student Association as a unique organization, the membership of which can include those students who are not able to organize their own particular associations.

In order that all of us may easily take part in at least some activities, we wish that our respective college officers and advisors would give some consideration to the matter of re-establishment of the International Student Association for the next semester.

Passing Through:

Infirm conformists

by C. W. Cheng

"Whoso would be a man, must be a nonconformist." These words were once expressed by Ralph Waldo Emerson in his essay on Self Reliance. But in our contemporary society, some people are adopting this so-called non-comformist fever, although not adhering directly to Emerson's philosophy — and they're giving a very wretched performance in trying to attain this status.

Generally speaking, a person is labeled a nonconformist if he deviates from the conventional institutions established and "accepted" by those who feel their standards are pure and virtuous for all. It would be absurd to believe that one can be classified as a true nonconformist simply by adopting a few eccentric habits by which that individual can be termed indifferent to society's rules.

Yet on our college campuses and elsewhere we have our bearded friends, sandaled buddies and collegiate phonies who actually believe they are being Emerson's true men by showing themselves independent of social customs. It is quite obvious, for the most part, that these people are wearing a disguise; for they want recognition, which no real nonconformist desires, by sidestepping the normal for no logical reason. These people are in reality debilitate conformists.

If one is to live a life with a dogged feeling of unconcern for the general standards of our culture then such people should forego their desire of making and wanting to be glorified spectacles of our society.

It might serve our little friends to delve into Albert Camus' novel The Stranger so as to analyze the character of Mr. Meursault, which should illustrate the spurious condition and appearance of the collegiate indifferent.

One can respect the personality of an individual who solely lives a sincere and honest life of a pure disinterested attitude toward our rather drab conventional way of living, but there can be only derisive comments for our pseudo-non-conformists.

Asian aid is campus project

Old and new sheet music is being sought during this month from Eastern students as part of a project to aid children in Japan and the Phillipine Republic.

The local chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music sorority, is conducting the drive to collect instrumental, vocal, piano, choral, and miscellaneous sheet music from EMC students to send to children in the two Asian nations. This is an annual project of the organization.

Students may contribute their old or extra copies of sheet music in designated boxes in the lounges at Pease Auditorium anytime during February.

Noted paintings on display

"The Painted Flower," a collection of original paintings in the diverse styles of such artists as Klee, Rouault, Buffet and Graves went on exhibition today (Thursday) in the EMC Art Gallery in the second floor Arts Building.

The show of children's art work executed by youngsters in the Roosevelt and Lincoln Schools has been postponed until March to make way for this major show of professional work.

Some thirty artists are represented in "The Painted Flower," an assemblage of paintings from the private collection of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mortimer Stoll, Jr., obtained through the Western Association of Art Museum Directors in Seattle.

Prof. Kingsley Calkins, Head of the Department of Art, announced that the special show would run through March 5.

Appointments

ginning June 23, for a four day period.

The part time appointments were: Gerald E. Moore, named professor of mathematics to teach part time and to do consultation work on departmental organization; and Mrs. Betty M. Ullman, Roger Joseph Newman, Gilbert Nestel and Mrs. Florence Clarke who were appointed part-time instructors in the mathematics department. In addition, Ronald W. Monson was appointed varsity swimming coach at the Roosevelt School, his appointment retroactive to December 10 and running through the end of the swimming season in April.

Music sorority entertains; holds election of officers

Mu Phi Epsilon's Epsilon Lambda chapter, which is a national music sorority, was hostess to one of the national officers, Miss Kathryn Newhouse, District Director of Great Lakes Province.

Miss Newhouse inspected the offices of the sorority at the work party.

The newly elected officers of the organization for the coming year are as follows: president, Nancy Cook; vice president, Eleanor Hassenzahl; corresponding secretary, Mary Gallagher; recording secretary, Karen Lofdahl; treasurer, Audrey Petaja; historian, Mary Lou Watchorn; warden, Kay Langlof; chaplain, Marilyn Ibach; chorister, Sharon Fleischmann; and alumnae secretary, Marilyn Ibach.

Students to organize Eastern Orthodox group

An Eastern Orthodox religious organization may be introduced on the EMC campus shortly.

All interested students should notify the following people as soon as possible: Carl Peters, 214 Munson; or Walt Pravica, 401 Brown.

Two art majors to instruct classes

Two EMC art education majors, Marjorie Hakala and Carol Lynn Rosentrater, will serve as instructors for Saturday morning children's art classes on campus.

The students will give instruction in drawing, painting, printing and sculpture under Department of Arts supervision. The classes, under sponsorship of the Department of Fine Arts and the Division of Field Services, will meet in room 200 of the Arts Building.

Children aged 5 to 9 will meet at 9:00 a.m., and those from 10 to 15 will meet at 10:30 a.m., beginning February 28.

Curtail trips, state orders

In compliance with the recent State Administrative Board directive, Eastern Michigan College staff will make no trips outside of the State of Michigan at State expense during the remainder of the current fiscal year, President Eugene B. Elliott announced today.

President Elliott pointed out that, in the long run, the college program would suffer if the interchange of ideas and information that takes place at scholarly and educational conferences were to cease. "Higher education in Michigan might become narrowly provincial if this necessary interchange did not take precedence in the present crisis, and for this reason the college intends to abide by both the spirit and the letter of the administrative director."

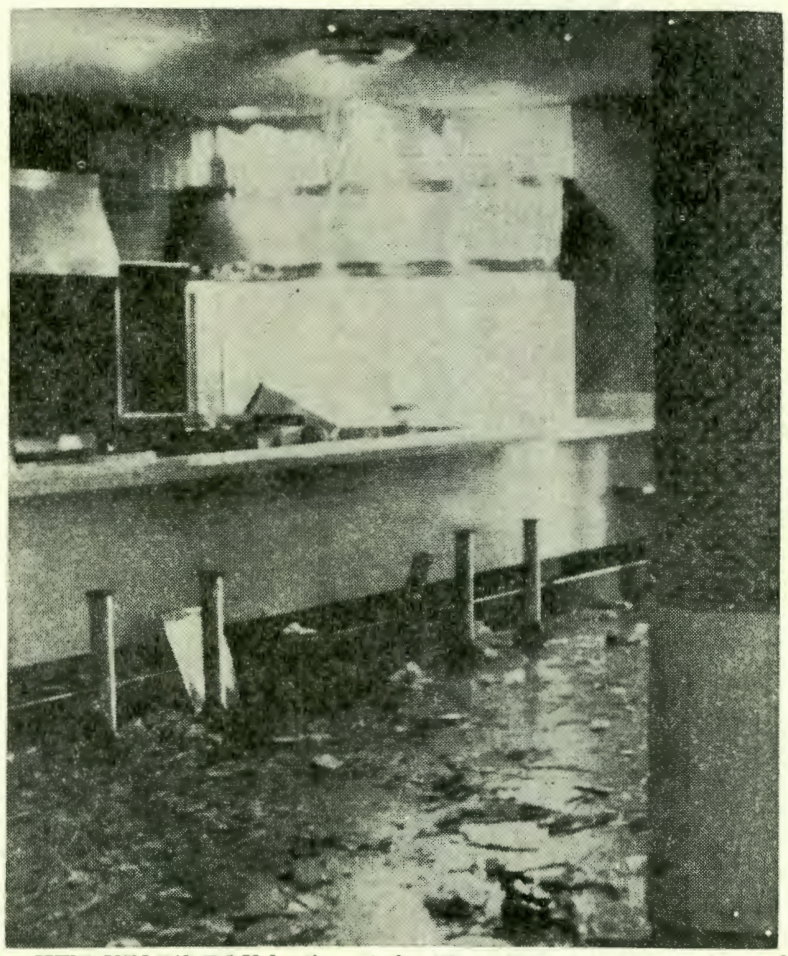
What EMC librarian saw in Cuba

The accompanying pictures on this page are the work of an EMC staff member who spend his Christmas vacation period in the heart of Havana.

Just below his hotel window in the central part of the city was the place where some of the most serious rioting occurred during the climax of the revolution which kicked out dictator Fulgencio Batista and put Fidel Castro's new government into power.

Cecil R. McLeod, acquisitions librarian at the college library, returned to Ypsilanti after Havana was restored to order. His pictures, reproduced here, were processed by the EMC audio-visual department from color transparencies.



NEW YEAR'S DAY looting at the Plaza Casino in Havana caused a mountain of damage. This shot, taken near the bar, shows the rubble left after angry rioters had mobbed through the swank nightspot.

OUTSIDE THE PLAZA hotel, an angry proprietor (man in the white coat) attempts to retrieve property which rioters had looted from the casino. Angry rioters look on.

Roosevelt critic teacher leaves to teach in Laos

Prof. Roderick D. Fraser, supervising teacher at the Roosevelt School, has been granted a year's leave of absence to accept a teaching assignment with the Southeast Asian Regional English Project in Laos.

In his new post he will teach English to natives in the area in a program supervised by the University of Michigan Language Institute. Prof. James B. Chandler of EMC is already in Laos helping to organize the project.

A graduate of the New York State College for Teachers in Albany, where he received both his B.A. and M.A. degrees, Prof. Fraser came to Eastern Michigan College in 1953. He and his family have been making their home at 910 Hillside Court, Ypsilanti.

Band seeks players

Any EMC student with previous band experience who is interested in participating with the college Band this semester is invited to contact the music department, it was announced this week.

There are openings in the various sections, particularly woodwind and tuba, Mitchell M. Osadchuk, Director of Band, said. In certain instances school-owned instruments will be made available.

Interested students should see Mr. Osadchuk in room 9 of Pease Auditorium.

Jazz concert February 15

Sinfonia's "A Study in Modern Jazz" will be presented this Sunday, February 15, at 4:00 p.m. in Roosevelt Auditorium.

The concert will be given by four or five different groups, each playing jazz characteristic of the area they represent (East Coast, West Coast, Chicago Jazz, etc.). The groups are made up of professional musicians from Detroit, Ann Arbor, and Ypsilanti.

There will be a commentary on each of the various jazz idioms, preceeding each group's performance.

All college skating party is planned for next Thursday

An all college skating party will be held on Thursday, February 26, from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

This event will take place at the University of Michigan's ice rink which is located at the corner of Hill and Fifth Street in Ann Arbor.

With I.D. card, the special price to EMC students will be fifty cents, and bus transportation will be provided for those who do not have cars.

All interested students should sign up in Room 2 at McKenny Hall by noon on February 25. A twenty-five cent deposit is necessary if transportation is needed, but will be refunded if bus transportation is utilized.

The bus leaves McKenny Hall promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Skates may be rented at the rink.

EMC students to take part in world day of prayer

A universal day of prayer for students at EMC is being planned for Sunday, February 15.

All students are invited to join in worship on this day.

Athletics--put it in its proper perspective!

by .... Bill Forster

Ex-Olympic star Jesse Owens, who is also a traveling salesman in the promotion of good will under the auspices of the United States government, made several well-put assertions in "blasting" college athletic officials recently.

Owens said frankly that the colleges today are providing "rose colored" glasses for athletes and thus forcing them to lose sight of all educational perspective. He added that parents are not helping one iota by encouraging the children of today to gain scholarships through athletic merit instead of educational gains.

This reporter feels that Owens is absolutely correct in his assumptions. People are losing the proper perspective on the athletic picture in colleges. As Owens further points out, in most cases, athletes glorified while in college are severely startled when they enter the big, wide world of reality.

It is true that at many colleges today an athlete is given certain uncalled-for advantages. This perverts the individual's mind and distorts what is considered proper educational values. However, this is apparently what the American people desire, or else measures would be taken to eradicate the situation.

Perhaps this is not a local issue, but nevertheless, it is an issue which is a negative factor in making our country a respected and respectable nation. These are my views, and I am certainly curious to discover yours, the readers'.

Cindermen victorious at AAU, State relays

by Ken Balcoff

Between semesters while most students were relaxing, the trackmen of Eastern Michigan were adding new victories to those which have already been taken by their illustrious forebearers.

At the Michigan AAU Relays in Ann Arbor, Huron cindermen took the top spot in four events. Fleetfooted Hayes Jones of Pontiac and Mauri Jormakka the "flash" from Finland bested an impressive field for their victories. Jormakka turned over a 4:15.8 mile while his running mate Jones led the field in the 60-yard dash in :06.2. Then twice more Jones proved that his recent leg injury did not bother him at all. Hayes went on for a :08.0 in the 65-yard high hurdles and a 65-yard low hurdle mark of :07.4.

At the Michigan State Relays in East Lansing the Huron warriors again put on a good show, treating the fans to traditional Huron track might. Hayes Jones again swept the hurdles but did not participate in the 60-yard dash. In the 75-yard high hurdles Jones sped home in :09.01. He also took the 75-yard low hurdle crown in :08.5.

In the mile Jormakka repeated as winner with a 4:18.01 effort. Doug Carroll also of Eastern Michigan finished second behind Mauri. At this point the Hurons were not through scoring, however, and went on to take fourth place in the college one-mile relay.

The college mile relay in which Eastern finished fourth was won by a Central Michigan four composed of Dave Meyers, Jerry O'Neil, Ken Blalock, and Robert Waters. These men set a new meet record of 3:24.2 eclipsing a record of 3:24.8 set by Robert Parks, Abe Ulmer, Wardell Gilliam, and Stanley McConner of Eastern Michigan in 1951 (then Michigan Normal).

Huron track fans will get to see the record breakers from Central when they compete here at Bowen Fieldhouse this Saturday afternoon. The dual meet should prove to be an interesting one although the home team should repeat last year's overwhelming victory in a little less brilliant style.

Oberlin dean to speak at Honors Convocation

Blair Stewart, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Oberlin College, will give the keynote address at the annual Honors Convocation March 23 in Pease Auditorium at EMC.

Date for the convocation was originally set for May 6 but, due to the scheduled closing of Pease Auditorium in April for alterations and installation of the Frederick Alexander Memorial Organ, the date has been changed to Monday, March 23.

Dean Stewart is a graduate of Reed College in Oregon. He took his M. A. degree at the University of Illinois and his doctorate at Stanford University, California. A specialist in the field of economics, he has taught at the University of Illinois, at Reed College and at Oberlin.

Down Court

EMC hoopsters await Central this Friday

by Jerry Levin

With the between semester lull upon us, this appears as good a time as any to pass a few bouquets out to Skala's "Iron Men."

Through this writer's eyes these were the high points of the basketball season so far: The opening game against Baldwin Wallace (a forshaddowing of good things to come). The capturing of the Flint Tournment Crown, the conference victory against Eastern Illinois. The inspired play against Western and Normal, the consistant fine play of Frank Manley the great improvement of Ron Gulyas, and the nine Iron Men who helped to raise Eastern out of the role of "conference cousins."

It has not all been good. Conspicous on the dissapointing list are the two losses to Hillsdale and the bad attitude that at times have plagued Eastern's cagers.

Coming to the aid of the hard pressed Huron team this semester will be Bill Stephens and Rich Montre. Bill, a familiar face on the Eastern hard court, will return after spending some time at the University of Michigan. Rich is a graduate of Henry Ford Community College.

It is already known that Stephens has a good shot. His past performance against opponents on the junior varsity plus his outstanding play in the tournment at Flint show that he still has his sharp eye. His true value to the team, however, will lie in his ability to fit in as an intregal part of the Huron attack. 6'6½" Montre may provide the answer to Skala's search for a good tall man.

In Saturday's game against Central, Eastern will sport this starting line up; Stephens and Gulyas at the guards McKenzie at center and Manley and Crickmore at the forward slots.

Olds article published

The February issue of the magazine Amateur Athlete, a publication of the Amateur Athletic Union possessing a circulation of over 15,000 contains an article written by Dr. L. W. Olds of EMC. It is entitled, "The Effects of High Altitude on Athletic Competition."

In his article, Dr. Olds, who managed the U. S. Pan-American team at Mexico City in 1955, indicates the effect of high altitudes on athletes. Olds garnered his material from pictures and personal experience on this trip.

The content of the article is particularly pertinent at this time since the National A. A. U. championships will be held in Boulder, Colorado this year. Colorado is notorious for its high altitude clime which contains a negative oxygen factor.

English: MAN WHO CONDUCTS POPULARITY SURVEYS

Thinklish translation: This fellow knows more about polls than a telephone lineman. When someone starts, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here!"—he counts noses to make sure. If he canvassed women, he'd be a galculator. If he totted up crimes of violence, he'd be a stabulator. Actually, he checks on the popularity of Luckies, and that makes him a lauditor! His latest survey makes this heartwarming point: Students who want the honest taste of fine tobacco are unanimously for Lucky Strike!
